Affordable Network Storage for Small & Home Business

Bu˜alo's LinkStation™ SoHo 200 is designed and priced specifically for small & home business environments where users are looking to secure their data in an on-site private network and avoid costly monthly cloud subscriptions. Businesses utilizing the LinkStation SoHo will enjoy business-level data storage and security without the hassle and prohibitive costs of setting up a professional storage network. This device is available in 4TB, 8TB & 12TB capacities.

The LinkStation SoHo includes two hard drives pre-configured in RAID1, providing data redundancy out of the box, saving you the hassle of setting this up yourself. This device also allows you to easily schedule backup jobs so the data on your PCs will be automatically backed up to the LinkStation SoHo. For Mac users, the LinkStation SoHo 200 is also Time Machine-ready. Professionals who work with digital cameras will especially appreciate the Direct Copy function, which allows direct data saving from a digital camera or another USB device without needing a PC. Once the LinkStation SoHo is connected to a UPS, the UPS sync feature allows the device to shut down immediately if there is a power outage, thereby preventing possible data loss.

Professional users will also enjoy LinkStation SoHo 200's Active Directory support that allows administrators to manage permissions and access to network resources, so you can create a network infrastructure that suits your needs. Along with the robust data security features, this device provides a platform to easily access and share data as well. Users will be able to remotely access files and folders on the LinkStation from both desktop and mobile devices by utilizing Buffalo's WebAccess application.
